

RITE AID MAKES SWEET GIFT TO KOSAIR KIDS

Norman Judd, the manager for one of Jeffersonville, Indiana's Rite Aid locations, plays a significant role in the activities sponsored by Kosair Charities. At the end of each season, Judd makes a sweet gift when he donates the store's leftover candy from each holiday season to be used during the many events taking place throughout the year.

"Kosair Charities is important to me because of what I've been through with my own son," said Judd.

Judd's son underwent surgery at Kosair Children's Hospital last year.

Rite Aid leaves it up to the store manager when deciding what to do with the surplus candy and Judd always makes the decision to pass it on to Kosair Charities.

"I really have a heart for kids, so I wanted to give it to an organization that I know really makes a difference in the lives of children," said Judd.

It's hard to say exactly how much candy Judd contributes, but he believes each holiday is over $400 worth of sweet treats for Kosair Kids. Some holidays exceed $1,000.

"We are so grateful for people like Norman Judd that help sponsor our events," said Jo Barrett, Vice President of Programs and Special Events for Kosair Charities. "Donations like his are used at the Holiday Party and other events throughout the year to make the time even more special for the children."
